It's not a mark concerning product quality, but system, organisation of all activities done in firm. Between ISO 9000, between rules for certification of system UNI EN ISC 9001,9002,9003, only UNI EN ISO 9001 is complete, in fact, it concerns the whole firm structure.

Mark ENEC is supranational and has the same value of national marks of 20 European Countries that agree to pact. It gives to consumers, installers, projectors and retailers security of choosing garanted quality products. Profits are the possibility to come in internationals markets, double guarantee – about product and about production process- and check done by independent workshops that are supra partes.

It's mark of USA and Canada markets, given by Underwriters Laboratories, founded in 1984 to give guarantee of security on household products to limit fires.

In USA installation of a product without this mark makes installer responsible for damages, so the mark is obligatory.

This is an administratif mark, imposed by rules of European Countries. Logo "CE" means manufacturer certifies that product corresponds to European Rules. At this moment, in our case, rule about low tension and electromagnetic compatibility. This doesn't imply any kind of check.
